I have to try the clock Briefly in Breitling Boutique in Manhattan, and the black titanium box with rubber straps cuts a clean and attractive profile. "The functionality" of the keyword "is very important, as well as the precision ... In 1995, we had the Breitling emergency. The connection works in both Sies: You can control the clock with your smart phone to establish things like Time areas, Alarms, Show, and Night Mode. Suddenly, Apple's clock seems affordable. We do not call it a smart watch yet. " Girardin accelerated from reminding me that all the characteristics of the B55 exospace were designed to be functional for a particular purpose, instead of simply adding. This is a SMART Tech Traditionalist approach: I barely had the opportunity to try the characteristics for myself. While SmartWatches continues to evolve and high-end watches strive to find ways to compete with high-tech alternatives, this hybrid idea will be more frequently. . But it's worth losing that this $ 8,900 clock is a bit further expensive than the $ 1,500 Android clothing debut from Tag Heuer. These are for times elapsed from the moment the aircraft begins to take a taxi to the track until the end of the flight. It is a trend that is growing: the connected Swiss fitness watches are already here. $ 8,900 | approx This is a true clock. The flight schedules can also be recorded separately, while dates and start times and landing times are stored in your memory. Well, that's also the point. Operates the digital part of the clock with the crown and adjustments. Chrono flight configurations are specifically oriented to aviation for recording blocking times in addition to the electronic tachometer, the B55 connected has an electronic chronograph You can record up to 50 times, including and account. No, this watch does not work Android Wear. Internally, a Bluetooth module of low energy keeps it connected with telephone notifications. A magnificent load cable power the clock for two months at a time. Would you buy one? one?
